

A Proactive Approach to Caregiving: Guidance on Planning Ahead

January 24 | 12:00pm - 1:00pm | On-site Seminar

LOCATION: 114 Mt. Auburn Street, Room 406

ABOUT THIS EVENT

Many people are inadequately prepared to face the complex issues associated with caring for an aging loved one. Often caregivers try to sort out the different care options without a clear understanding of quality and cost. Planning proactively can assist families to prepare for the care of an aging family member, mitigate an unexpected crisis, and ultimately result in better choices and outcomes. This seminar will address:

- Challenges faced by caregivers and resources available to provide adequate support.
- Effective and proactive management of caregiving responsibilities.

ABOUT THE SPEAKER

Lauren Fatovic
LICSW

Lauren Fatovic is a masters level social worker and Senior Care Advisor with Care.com's Senior Care Planning team. As an undergraduate student, Lauren discovered her passion for working with seniors and sought to pursue a specialization in health and aging.
