

Brittany Battista is a Project Specialist on the Communications Creative Services team at Alumni Affairs and Development and has been working at Harvard since 2015. In this role, she manages cyclical print and digital projects through all stages of the creative process. In her spare time, Brittany enjoys baking, pairing wine with food, and petting as many dogs as she can.

Natalie Beaumont-Smith oversees some of the programs offered through the Harvard's Office of Work/Life helping employees balance their working lives. She has been a part of the CCW Steering Committee for 8 years as Treasurer, Chair, and now University Liaison. Originally from Australia, she is a keen, competitive road cyclist.

Surabhi Chatterjee is a Program Specialist in Harvard Human Resources, where she works in the Planning and Program Management team. Surabhi manages programs for the Center for Workplace Development where she focuses on programs for staff engagement, talent development, organizational development, as well as promoting inclusion and belonging. Prior to joining the PPM team, Surabhi worked in the Harvard International Office and in FAS. Surabhi is an avid reader, a fan of all dogs everywhere, and has a dog sidekick Milo.

Katie Connors has been working in Communications Creative Services in Harvard's Alumni Affairs and Development office since November 2016. She recently completed the Nonprofit Management certificate through the Harvard Extension School and hopes to use her knowledge in the office and in her role in the CCW. Katie is an unapologetic feminist who likes to run marathons, practice yoga, travel, and eat anything that is put in front of her.

Melissa Godet is the Project and Outreach Coordinator for the Harvard Initiative for Learning and Teaching (HILT). She manages the editorial process for a University-wide bi-weekly e-letter highlighting pedagogical practices of faculty to provide timely, evidence-based teaching advice to an audience of over 12,000 with an average open rate of 34%. In 2017, she earned her MBA from Questrom School of Business at Boston University, focusing on non-profit management and organizational behavior. She is a pop culture fanatic, loves any excuse to be closer to nature, and enjoys doing all kinds of puzzles.

Karina Grazina is the staff assistant at the Leadership Initiative at Harvard Business School. In this role she manages the daily staff operations as well as planning large scale events for the initiative. Previously, Karina served as the Energy Correspondent for Thomson Reuters in Buenos Aires. Karina has used her journalistic and ethnographic skills in the classroom as a lecturer and researcher at Buenos Aires University where she contributed to several research projects including a study of the Gypsy community in Argentina.

Teresa C. Malonzo is the Senior Diversity Programs Consultant in Harvard Human Resources. Teresa has over 25 years of experience in higher education. Her interests are in compliance, community engagement, diversity and inclusion. Outside work, she loves to travel and experience the beauty, history, food and people of different regions.

Kristen Rae is Associate Director, Custom Programs in Executive Education at Harvard Business School, where she works on business development for Custom Programs including conducting and managing the initial client screening and inquiry process and assisting in determining potential custom program opportunities that adhere to the strategic priorities of the school. Kristen holds a Master's degree in Political Science and International Development from the Institut d'Etudes Politiques de Paris and a Bachelor's degree in Economics and French from Boston University.

Anna Sangalang joined Alumni Affairs & Development as Senior Associate Director in 2015, after previously working in development at the Harvard Chan School. In her current role, Anna manages stewardship and donor recognition strategies for top University-wide donors and donors to presidential funds and priorities. Outside of work, Anna enjoys exploring the world with her husband and their two small children.

Colleen Silva-Hayden is Assistant Director of University Innovation at LASPAU where she leads the area in designing and implementing programs that build institutional capacity in higher education institutions across Latin America and the Caribbean. Colleen also completed the Harvard Administrative Fellowship program and currently works with a team of former fellows and allies to advance diversity, inclusion, and belonging across Harvard. She has studied in and/or worked with over 15 countries across the Americas. She holds a M.Ed. in International Education Policy from Harvard University and a B.A. in Sociology from Boston College.

Rachelle Walsh is a Senior Financial Analyst at Harvard Kennedy School who partners with research centers and senior leadership to drive strategic decision making and provide financial stability for the school. Rachelle moved to Boston from Arkansas in 2014 and worked as a Senior Financial Analyst at Grand Circle Travel until 2016. Rachelle earned an undergraduate degree in Mathematics from the University of Arkansas in 2007 and an M.B.A. from Harding University in 2011. In Boston, Rachelle works on community outreach by volunteering at Rosie's Place, the Greater Boston Food Bank and the South End Historic Society.

Kamille Washington AB '10, is the Administrative Director for Office of FAS International Affairs. In her role as Administrative Director, she cultivates opportunities for new FAS international initiatives and manages a number of existing programs. She is the current president of the Harvard Gender and Sexuality Caucus, Harvard's LGBTQ+ alumni organization and is one half of the Unfriendly Black Hotties, a podcast about the intersection of race, gender, and sexuality in higher education, pop culture, and politics. In her spare time, she enjoys Muay Thai, bagels, and acquiring tattoos.

Colleen Yout is a gritty New Englander that lives on an overgrown apple orchard. She is the mother of a middle-school girl, the Assistant Director of Harvard University's PhD Program in Health Policy, and a podcast junkie. Colleen loves to facilitate a space for others to learn and grow and deeply believes in the power of nature, gender equality, and embracing both the beauty and messiness of life.