Harvard University’s SCHOOL’S OUT PROGRAM
Tuesday, February 20 - Friday, February 23, 2018

The Reason for the Seasons

Each day of the week will focus on a different season with engaging activities across curriculum areas including a focus on STEM learning!

Tuesday - Winter: Let it snow! Campers will engineer marshmallow catapults and snowflake spinners. Snowman chemistry will display melting in a whole new way. Sparkly icicle art and Northern Lights landscapes bring creativity to the cold.

Wednesday - Spring: Any green thumbs? Campers learn about different plants and grasses by planting a take-home garden. Next, design birdseed ornaments to attract birds to your backyard. Science concepts blossom into art by creating chromatography butterflies and 3D paper flowers.

Thursday - Summer: Fun in the sun! The day will start with crafting under the sea landscapes using different textured materials. Pattern and color will inspire the making of jeweled sun catchers. Campers will eat the science behind ice cream in a bag! A summer day isn’t complete without kite creations.

Friday - Fall: It’s harvest time! “Salsa Taste-Off” teams participate in a farm to table competition to create the best recipe. Next, campers create 4D yarn pumpkins and painted leaf window clings. Finally, mixing pumpkin slime gives campers a science, sensory, and math experience all in one!

Additional Activities

In addition to the planned group activities, campers will also have opportunities to play games, make new friends, and get outside (weather permitting - we encourage you to send your child with weather appropriate clothing).
