WEDNESDAY, December 5, 2018
3:00 pm – 5:00 pm
Klarman Hall, Harvard Business School

3:00 pm – 4:30 pm: Driving Innovation at Harvard session
4:30 pm – 5:00 pm: Refreshments, networking, and giveaways

Harvard Business Publishing, in partnership with the Harvard University Center for Workplace Development and Harvard Business School, invites you to attend a unique learning and community-building event designed to foster a culture of innovation throughout Harvard.

Join colleagues from across the University in a celebration of learning, innovative thinking, and community, and to honor the 20th anniversary of Harvard ManageMentor™. This session, using the Harvard ManageMentor Café model, will engage you in a live interactive discussion around innovation and innovation implementation.

You will learn:

- How to define what innovation means at Harvard
- How to drive new thinking and ideas
- Techniques to improve cross-functional collaboration, with your peers, your teams, and your leadership
- Specific steps you can take to drive innovation in your role, from building diverse teams to creating a work environment that supports creativity and inspiration

This unique event is open to all Harvard University and Harvard Business Publishing employees, was designed by Harvard Business Publishing learning solutions specialists, and will be facilitated by one of Harvard Business Publishing’s world-class moderators, who deliver programs like these to some of the world’s biggest organizations.

The session will be followed by refreshments, networking, and giveaways, as well as a chance to demo Harvard ManageMentor.

This event requires registration by Wednesday, November 28, 2018.
Please register here: http://form.harvardbusiness.org/HMMEventDec52018

You will receive more details about pre-reading and parking prior to the event.
If you have questions, please contact training@harvard.edu.